FEDERAL ARMY CLOSING IN ON TORREON TODAY

Hope to Deliver the Final Crushing Blow to Mexican Revolt

BULLETIN
Nogales, Ariz., March 13—(AP)—General Francisco Borquez, rebel leader in Sonora, who was taken in custody and held incommunicado for three hours here last night, was released at 10:50 p. m. (Tuesday) and permitted to return to Nogales, Sonora.

Mexico City, March 13—(AP)—Federal troops closed in today on Torreón in a determined effort to deliver a final and crushing blow to the rebel movement centered there. The forces of General Calles moved northward from Rio Grande and Camacho, Zacatecas, to attack the city as other government troops gave close pursuit to the rebel wing, which had evacuated Saltillo and was retreating to Torreón.

Overwhelming defeat was predicted for the rebel army, with postponement of collapse of their cause possible only in withdrawal to Chihuahua City. Such withdrawal would result probably in eventual dispersal across the United States border to evade capture.

Meanwhile government bulletins related a story of continued government successes. These included evacuation of Saltillo by the rebels, checking of the advance on Mazatlán, and return to the government of 1,600 Indian troops at Naco, Sonora.

Events led to a public statement by the President Portes Gil that the rebellion had failed and that in a short time complete order would be restored everywhere.

There was firm conviction in official quarters that the battle for the possession of Torreón might never be fought, and that the uprising for all its auspicious beginning, might be a nearly bloodless revolution. It was pointed out that with the exception of the battle at Ciudad Juárez, at Monterey and a few other minor skirmishes the revolt thus far has been practically without bloodshed.

Gen. Aguirre Executed
General Simon Aguirre, brother of General Jesus M. Aguirre, was executed at Santa Lucrécia, Vera Cruz, by General Lefandro Manjé. It was announced Aguirre surrendered to the government unconditionally after he had made an effort to secure immunity. He was court-martialed and shot. It was said that lesser officers and soldiers might escape punishment for the revolt but the leaders faced severe punitive action.

Another government announcement said that General Francisco Manzo, in charge of the rebel campaign in Sonora, had crossed the United States frontier and deposited $129,000 to his account in an American bank at Nogales, foreseeing the time when he would have to live in exile.

It was said the government was without knowledge as to whether General Manzo returned to continue leadership of his troops. Other rebel commanders were said to have sent their families north to the United States and government circles were jubilant in their acceptance of the situation of admission on defeat.

REBELS HAVE 22,000

Juárez, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 13—(AP)—An army of 22,000 rebels has been massed at Torreón for the expected battle with federal troops commanded by General P. Elias Calles, according to unofficial information received at rebel headquarters here.

If reports as to the size of the rebel contingent at Torreón are true, observers predict one of the greatest battles in the history of revolutions in this turbulent country. The army under Calles is reported to be one of the largest ever sent out by the government to quell rebellion.

Some 3,000 more rebels including a band of 2,000 Yaqui Indians, were reported on their way to the strategic city.

In the territory controlled by the rebels religious laws were abolished and a moratorium on debts, interests and bank deposits of 5,000 pesos or more established by a decree issued by General Juan Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief of the revolutionary forces.

The decree, the first official communication of the kind since the beginning of the rebellion, also declared for the resolution ratified by a constitutional convention in February, 1927, which forbade re-election to the presidency of Mexico.

WAIT NACO ATTACK

Naco, Sonora, Mexico, March 13—(AP)—Behind hastily constructed barbed wire entanglements and entrenchments, the loyal troops of General Augustino Olachea, consisting mostly of Maya and Yaqui Indians, today awaited an expected attack by rebel troops from two sides. Olachea and his colorful band, previously linked upon as a part of the revolutionary forces, staged a coup yesterday after they had been dispatched from rebel headquarters by General Francisco Manzo to join other revolutionaries in the Torreón sector.

Arriving at Naco, 12 miles south of Torreón, the rebels were met by the government forces.

GALENA VISITED BY WORST FLOOD SINCE YEAR 1916

The Business Section is Under Four Feet of Water Today

Galeña, Ill., March 13—(AP)—The worst flood since 1916 swept down on Galeña today. Four feet of water streamed down Commerce street and Main street also was inundated. Many business houses have been forced to close and transportation has been seriously affected. Trains have been running through three feet of water. The flood was still rising today at the rate of 1 1/2 inches an hour.

The Galeña post office was entirely surrounded by water and cut off from the remainder of the city. Rowboats and motorboats have been pressed into service in transacting business at the postoffice. Railroad stations were also flooded and the De Soto hotel, famous as the Galeña headquarters of General Grant, is standing in several inches of water.

For five blocks Commerce street is a miniature river and a Galeña inventor announced he would try out a new speedboat of his design along the street this afternoon.

Business houses along three blocks of Main street have closed.

The Galeña Gazette, occupying a building on higher land, is publishing as usual but reporters are experiencing difficulty in covering the city and reporting the flood.

THREE DEAD IN MYSTERY BLASTS IN ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Explosions, Two Hours
Apart, Thought Work of Two Bombers

St. Joseph, Mo. Mar. 13—(AP)—Three persons were killed and nine others, mostly children, were injured in two mysterious explosions which wrecked two buildings here this morning.

The first blast demolished a two-story brick store building with apartments above at 2011 South Tenth Street. The second two hours later, wrecked a similar building at 2102 South Eleventh Street, two blocks away, which a large crowd, attracted by the earlier blast, was milling about the street.

Seek Two Men
Police expressed belief the blasts were set off by bombers. They were seeking two men reported to have been seen leaving the scene of the first explosion shortly before it occurred. Reports that the same two men later were seen to throw what appeared to be a bomb into the other building also were being investigated.

The men were said to have been driving a coupe.

Investigation also was being made to determine if escaping gas might have been responsible for the blasts.

The dead:
Mrs. Mary Lew, 65; Charles Donald Nolan, 10; Dorothy Glogner, 9.

The injured:
Tom Nolan, 45; Mrs. Mary Nolan, 38; Catherine Nolan, 11; Marie Nolan, 15; Helen Norine Nolan, 8; John Patrick Nolan, 2; Tom Tinney, 24; Mary Agnes Glogner, 6; J. A. Glogner, age unknown.

No Gas Connections
Leo Urban, fire chief, stated there were no gas connections in the second building destroyed. He expressed the belief that it had been blown up by a bomb or other explosives.

EMMERSON WON SKIRMISH FOR GAS TAX TODAY

Igoe Beaten in Move to Postpone Consideration of Measure

Springfield, Ill., March 13—(AP)—Administration forces garnered 89 votes to 55 for the opposition, on the first test roll call on the Governor's gas tax in the House of Representatives today. The vote was on the motion by Minority Leader Igoe, Chicago, to postpone consideration for two weeks.

Igoe Is Defeated.
The motion for postponement was predicated upon Igoe's belief that the highway department has been negligent in repaying money to counties under the state aid act.

"The Chief Highway engineer," he declared, "told me there wasn't any money to make these refunds. We went to the Auditor and found that money was available."

"We ought to say to the Governor and to the Chief Highway Engineer that until you pay our counties the money due them you shall not receive any more money from us."

Following Igoe, the three outstanding administration leaders had the floor—Fice of Greenville, Little of Champaign, and McCarty of Elgin. All opposed Igoe's motion for postponement.

Party Lines Split.

Party and sectional lines alike were disregarded on the roll call. The Democrats were split almost evenly. Igoe drew 13 of the downstate votes which were offset by 14 Chicago members voting against him.

Downstaters siding with Igoe were Borders and Holten of East St. Louis, McCracken and Smetten of Rock Island; Breen of Metcalf, Burns of Kankakee, Henneberry of Wilmington; F. W. Lewis of Robinson, McCluggage of Peoria, O'Neil of Downers Grove, Parker of Mount Vernon, Pettit of Batavia, and Robert J. Wilson of Kewanee.

Ballot Bills Pass.

Without a dissenting vote, Governor Emmerson's ballot bills were passed by the Senate this morning, providing that constitutional amendment proposals shall be printed on the left margin of the general ballot instead of on small separate ballots.

Companion measures, the two bills were adopted by votes of 37 to 0, and 32 to 0. They now go to the House.

Committees of the House reported a host of approved bills to the House floor today, the result of hours of industry yesterday. Conspicuous by their absence were two bills, one to repeal the state's fire enforcement laws, the other to compel the reading of the Bible in public schools.

Wet Measure Dies

Defeat of the wet measure upset predictions. It had been expected the judiciary committee would pass to the House the responsibility of defeating or passing the measure.

Charles Weber, of Chicago, sponsor of the bill, intimated as much before the committee in his short explanation of the bill. But on the first roll call, to report it out unfavorably, got an 18 to 17 vote, and the bill died. Possibly an attempt to revive it may be made today but the efforts, if made, are likely to be unsuccessful.

While the Bible bill had been accorded little chance for passage, the controversy over it at times became acrid. A Lutheran pastor, Paul Schultz of Springfield, and a Methodist official, Dr. W. W. Fleming of Chicago, Executive Secretary of the Methodist Board of Public Morals for Illinois, were the antagonists in this bill.

Preachers Argued

Rev. Schultz called the bill "the most vicious proposal since prohibition."

Dr. Fleming responded that Schultz' faction of the Lutheran church, representing a very small minority, was the only church in the nation against it. The Lutheran urged the committee to keep religion out of public life. The Methodist answered that religion and morality were the basis of the state, and after the bill was voted down, an unnamed companion of Schultz fired a parting shot at the Methodist by address Dr. Fleming: "You made a good talk but you ought to be more careful with your facts."

One other bill of interest was killed: The proposal to compel publication of municipal payrolls. Balancing these defeated measures were the following reported out of committee: Women on juries, Calumet River harbor bill, the Lantz income tax bill, the bill reducing Chicago's corporate rate 5 cents, and a bill to make an eight months school term mandatory.

Candler of Coca Cola

Atlanta, Ga., March 13—(AP)—Atlanta today mourned Asa G. Candler, a former drug clerk in a country pharmacy, whose faith in a soft drink formula brought him millions in the manufacture of Coca Cola. The 78-year-old capitalist, civic leader and philanthropist died late yesterday at Wesley Memorial hospital after an illness of more than two years.

More than forty years ago he purchased the formula for Coca Cola for a reported price of $500, and in 1915 sold his interest in the immense Coca Cola Manufacturing Company for $25,000,000.

King George Much Better: No Regent

Bognor, England, March 13—(AP)—So much improvement has the condition of King George shown that it is now believed no attempt will be made to seek appointment of a Regent to act during the remainder of his illness.

It is believed that His Majesty will be well enough by the time parliament must be dissolved to deal personally with all matters connected with the dissolution of the government, the general elections to be held in May, and formation of the new cabinet.

PEAT BOG NEAR NORMANDY GAVE MAN BAD SCARE

Cyril Bowen, Farmer,
Nearly Lost Life
in It Recently

Cyril Bowen, who lives on a farm south of Normandy, came near losing his life through sinking in a peat bog in the swamp near here a few days ago, when he walked out on the peat to investigate overflow conditions, and quickly found himself sinking. By a desperate struggle he got safely on firm land.

This peat land, of about 50 acres, is much lower than the banks of a ditch bordering it and does not freeze as deeply as other land does. When Green river arose and backed water over the land, instead of the water covering the peat, it went under it. This caused the peat layer to rise to the level of the ditch bank.

There was a lot of ungarthered corn on stalks left in the field, and it was raised up to the high level. Bowen noting this thought the water had subsided, so he went to investigate. As he stepped into a corn row he began to sink, but struggled safely to the firm footing. Roy Norman, who oversees the farm on which this land is located, when told of the near accident, investigated and found the overflow water had gone under the peat deposit instead of covering it.

Myers was taken before Justice Martin J. Gannon last evening where the case was disposed of.

CALLED TO ST. LOUIS

Mrs. K. F. Siebolt was called to St. Louis, Mo., as her brother, E. H. Hendrix of this city is to submit to a serious operation. Mr. Hendrix has been spending the winter with another sister, Mrs. C. H. Grover of that city.

ON STATUTORY CHARGE

CAN'T SEE GREAT SHOW

Several Dixonites, who had planned to motor to Freeport tomorrow evening to witness the production of "The Desert Song" at the Consistory Temple, have been advised that the house has been sold out for weeks and that a trip to that city for the purpose of seeing the performance would be in vain.

RETURNS TO FARM

Supervisor Ross Emmitt of Harmon township has moved from his residence one mile east of Sterling on the Lincoln Highway to his farm northwest of Harmon to begin his farming activities. Supervisor and Mrs. Emmitt spent the winter at their home near Sterling and last week moved to their farm where they will spend the summer months.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD

Lee Heffey of this city was arrested last night by Sheriff Ward Miller on a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses and was taken to the county jail. The complaint was sworn out by Robert Bahren, who conducts the Pine Tree route camp south of the city on route 2. Heffey is alleged to have called upon Mr. Bahren on March 5 and represented that he needed $10 with which to pay a fine. He is said to have represented that he was a prisoner in the county jail and that Sheriff Miller had granted him his liberty to secure the necessary amount. A few days later a report was made to Sheriff Miller and the warrant was issued.

WILSON PLEADS GUILTY

L. A. Wilson of this city, with his attorney, Lloyd Scriven, appeared before Judge Leech in the County Court yesterday afternoon to answer to an information charging him with the sale and possession of intoxicating liquor. Wilson's residence at 114 Noble avenue was one of a number of places visited by city and county officers about a month ago in a series of "speak-easy" closings.

Wilson entered a plea of guilty to the charges contained in the information and was assessed a fine of $250 on the count charging sale of intoxicating liquor, which together with the court costs was paid immediately. On the count charging possession, he was placed on parole for a period of one year.

MAY BE EXPLANATION

Friends of Jas. Ketchik, enterprising clerk at Stratton & Covert's, and a self-acknowledged weather prognosticator par excellence, are wondering what has become of that "first robin" he sees every year. Jim, who after the first cold spell in January predicted there would be no more zero weather this year, must have become so confused over the failure of that prophecy that he forgot to keep up the furnace fire one bitterly cold night, with the result that the "first robin"—which it is alleged he has kept prisoner in the basement of his home each winter—froze to death. Consequently Jim couldn't be the first one to see the "first robin." Such is the price of fallen fame.

RIVER IS HIGH TODAY

On the same date last year that the ice started moving out of Rock river, March 12, late yesterday afternoon the heavy fields above the dam started breaking up and clearing. A year ago the river cleared up in February and then a cold spell caused a second crop of ice to form and this passed out March 12.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR MEMORIALS DOOMED TO DIE

Will Probably Not Get
Out of Sen. Wright's
Senate Committee

Springfield, Ill., March 13—(AP)—Lying in the portfolio of Senator Harry G. Wright of DeKalb, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, are six bills asking $312,500 from the state general fund for soldier monuments and veterans organizations.

The first of these was called for hearing in the committee last week. It was the first time the committee had met to consider bills which were not rubber stamped with the Governor's approval. Sixteen veterans of America's greatest war, the Civil war, appeared before the committee dressed in their faded blue uniforms to ask a favorable report on the bill in question. It asked $200,000 for a monument in Grant Park, Chicago, dedicated to dead veterans of all wars. Senator Lowell B. Mason of Oak Park sponsored the bill.

The committee heard the pleas of the veterans, led by General James S. Ewart, 88 years old, in sympathetic silence. Then Senator Adelbert Roberts of Chicago asked a few questions and then turning to Chairman Wright moved that the bill be favorably reported out of committee.

Refused Motion

Senator Wright hesitated and looking straight at the Senator bluntly said, "I don't want to entertain that motion at this time." Senator Roberts took the hint and withdrew it.

Another senator, Victor P. Michel of Peoria, started to make the same motion, but was silenced by the chair. Senator Mason, who had introduced the bill at the request of the Grand Army of the Republic, then took the floor and announced that he failed to see why the chair could not accept the motion and just as bluntly as the chairman had talked to Senator Roberts, Mason made the same motion.

Senator Wright, clearly in a quandary, was about to reply rather sharply, but Senator Martin R. Carlson, president pro tem of the Senate, gained the floor and "talked turkey" for a few minutes. He told the committee and voters that there were many such bills pending before that committee now and that in view of the promised economy program of the Governor that all should be studied carefully.

Mason Determined

Senator Mason was still determined to push the bill, but after a whispered conference with Senators Michel and William McCauley of Olney, twice state commander of the American Legion, the decision was left to the veteran visitors. They chose to let the committee take action at a future time.

Senator McCauley spoke briefly to the effect that no bills for any monuments would get through the Senate this session unless this bill was considered first. He was backed by Mason, Roberts, Michel, Lee and numerous others.

Immediately, Senator Wright, at the behest of Senator Carlson, called an executive session of the committee. There will be no more misunderstandings when a bill is called for conference before that committee.

The bills asking $312,500 will probably all of them die in the committee. Two or three may get out, but they will have to snow road reason.

One appropriate $25,000 to buy the old Thomas Lincoln homestead near Charleston, $40,000 is sought to pay expenses of national encampments of the Spanish War and Foreign War Veterans in Springfield in 1929 or 1930, $20,000 to pay for the proposed "last encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Springfield next year, $15,000 for an Illinois cottage at the National home for widows and orphans of Civil War, $5,000 for the G. A. R. $30,000 each for Spanish War and Foreign War veterans, and $200,000 for the Grant Park monument.

Arrangements for the funeral had not been communicated to Dixon relatives this afternoon, and they, with the obituary, will be published later.

Mrs. Rhodenbaugh is survived by four daughters and one son: Sarah (Mrs. Ernest Moeller) of near Nelson; Christina (Mrs. George Walters) of Dixon; Margaret (Mrs. E. J. Brumer) of Dixon; Catherine (Mrs. A. C. Moeller) of Dixon, and Jacob Rhodenbaugh of Harmon. Several grandchildren and great grandchildren also mourn her passing.

Lafayette, Ind., March 13—(AP)—Russell Byron, 29, was still alive today although he shot himself through the head yesterday in an attempt at suicide during a spell of despondency. ## LICENSE OF HOP INN REVOKED AT COUNCIL MEETING

Result of Raid There
Recently: Vote was Unanimous

After considerable discussion upon the part of members of the city council last evening as the concluding matter of business of the session, the city license permitting Scott Hull, owner and proprietor of Scotty's Hop Inn, was revoked by the unanimous vote of the commission. Mayor Frank D. Palmer called the attention of the council to the violation of the city's ordinance covering soft drink parlors and Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Charles E. Miller immediately prepared a motion in which he recommended the revocation of the license. The subject was then open for discussion and at first some of the members of the council favored waiting until Hull had been tried in the courts.

The city's ordinance regulating soft drink parlors and the conduct of the proprietors of such places was then read to the council. Mayor Palmer told the commissioners that the council had been censured for having not taken this action shortly after Hull's place of business on Galeña avenue was raided on February 15, almost a month ago. When Commissioner Campbell inquired what evidence the council had, the mayor responded:

"Ten gallons, commissioner, home brew and some other stuff of high to be called to bring some of the evidence here?"

Commissioner Miller, who had remained silent during the discussion, told the council that he had prepared a motion in which he recommended the revocation of the license and that the council could table it until the next meeting, vote it down or act upon it at once. Mayor Palmer called for the roll call and each of the commissioners voted favoring the revocation of the license immediately.

MOUNTAIN PEAKS OF MUSIC

When we speak of the music of the Alps, we mean not the rush of torrents, such as attracted Strauss, nor the seductive sound of the cowbells, which might have charmed another Nocturne from Debussy, but the majesty of the great mountains, themselves, which, in music corresponds to Bach and Beethoven at their mightiest and to Liszt in his most mystical moods. Again, if we say that the Aiguille du Dru, piercing the very heavens with its sharp, vertical point, as we gaze up at it from Montevaux, resembles the sword of the king, or the "Ring," flashing brilliantly from the trumpets, or that the Grande Jorasse, crowning the Mer de Glace with their tremendous ramparts and buttresses, might be the Castle of Valhalla risen again from the flames of "Götterdämmerung," we can only mean that these vast mountains (composed) for us a mood or an impression which, in the musical world, would appropriately be expressed by those of Wagner. This kind of relationship does not differ essentially from the refining associations which the composers themselves indulged in the forest murmurs from "Siegfried," and "brook" movement in the Pastoral Symphony, or the other instances which I have mentioned. But when the summit of Mont Blanc is seen above the clouds after sunset, glimmering in the afterglow like some mystic island of another world on high, and when I say that this apparition has an effect upon me comparable to that of Bach's "Invention" in the B minor Mass, I am touching upon a rather different sort of connection. That music is not in any sense "appropriate" to the sight of Mont Blanc; it was inspired by an idea which presents as great a contrast to an Alpine view as anything could do, and it is ideally suited in its subject.

This is not an isolated example. In a sense it is typical of the music of the Alps. To Wordsworth: "The meanest flower that blows can give Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears."

But Nature's grandest manifestations do even more than this; they seem to reveal the infinity of the universe, just as it was vouchsafed to Beethoven to do in the "Cavatina" of the Byrlat quarter or the opening bars of the Ninth Symphony. Such passages as these are, indeed, the mountain peaks of music.—R. W. S. Mendi, in The English Review.

Breakfast—Stewed figs with orange sections, cereal, cream, sour cream waffles, syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Scallops in ramikins, toasted muffins, celery and carrot salad, fruit custard pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Sauerkraut with fresh pork, mashed potatoes, cottage cheese, head lettuce, dried apple pie, milk, coffee.

Fruit Custard Pudding
One and one-half cups canned peaches, 1-3 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 cups milk, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup cake crumbs, 1 orange.

Drain fruit from juice and cut in thin slices. Place in serving dish. Pour over orange juice. Grate rind of orange and add to 1 1/2 cups milk. Scald over hot water. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch and stir in remaining 1/2 cup of milk. When smooth, beat into well-beaten eggs. Strain scalded milk into egg mixture, beating until sugar is dissolved. Cook 20 minutes over hot water, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in cake crumbs. Stir until cool enough to pour over fruit without breaking glass dish. If a glass dish is not used, the custard can be poured over fruit without cooling. Chill and serve from serving dish with or without whipped cream.

"Youth Victorious Over Poverty"

Hollywood, Cal., March 13—(AP)—After proving the truth of the almost forgotten song of other days, "Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder," George "Big Boy" Gillespie, singing cowboy of an Arizona "Dude" ranch, Thorne, Chicago, helms, were together again today.

A two weeks "love test" prescribed by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, ended yesterday when the third daughter of the former president of the Montgomery Ward Company declared that "for two weeks I listened to my parents' arguments, but found that my love had increased during the separation."

"There is nothing to add to the fact that my wife and I are very happy and expect to make our home here while I am 'completing a picture,' commented the groom, as the couple settled down in their apartment at 1735 Cherokee street, and began real housekeeping.

"The perfect romance," says Hollywood, "Youth victorious over poverty." The perplexed parents of the bride were on their way to Chicago. They left a new automobile for the use of the couple.

Summer Shade Hats Have Color Touches

Paris—(AP)—Summer shade hats are going to be wide, extending to the tip of the shoulder in some instances, but they will not be round, since the front will nearly always be shorter than the back and sides.

Double deckers of felt and straw are shown by a dressmaker-milliner of wide influence. Nearly all hats at this particular house are mushroom in shape.

Natural straw hats of enormous size, with crowns covered with printed or plain colored silk to match the sport or beach costume, are an important phase of summer millinery. Use of matching scarves as hat trimmings, particularly on white straw meant for wear with natural colored silk costumes, is another innovation.

The attendants were Mrs. Harold A. Drew, matron of honor; and Everett Nelson, best man. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harold A. Drew. She was charming in a flame colored georgette ensemble, and the matron of honor wore a lovely green georgette frock. Both the bride and matron of honor wore corsage bouquets.

After the ceremony a bridal tea was served at the Sally Lunn Tea Room.

The bridegroom is a traveling salesman and his bride is employed as stenographer and bookkeeper in the offices of the Detroit Harvester Co., which position she will continue to occupy. Both young people, who are receiving the best wishes and congratulations of many friends, are so busy at present to take a wedding trip but expect to go on a western trip later in the spring. ### YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton
© 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

Bobby's mother looked over his shoulder at his language paper and shuddered. "Bobby Smith! You're the world's worst writer! I'm perfectly ashamed of you. Can't you try harder?"

"I do try, Mother. But I just can't keep on the lines."

"But those lines in diagraming! Surely you could have taken a ruler instead of drawing them by hand."

"I know, but I'm awful tired. That arithmetic took nearly all evening and I just hurried with this."

"Let me see your arithmetic paper."

Bobby opened his book and took it out reluctantly. "I guess maybe it isn't quite so good either. Honest, Mum, I can't get my work next the way you and Miss Holbin like it."

His mother went over and got Elizabeth's night work and laid it on the table beside his. "Look here, Dad, will you? I want you to see what a careless son you've got."

Bobby hung his head while his father, interrupted in the middle of a thrilling mystery story, came to earth long enough to amble over and take the two papers.

"Humph! Pretty rough stuff that, Bob! New kind of shaded paper they use in your room, huh? Sort of cloudy black and white!" He winked at his wife.

Sarcasm's Effect
Bobby's ears turned crimson.

"Well, I've preached soap and water till I'm tired," sighed his mother. "What am I going to do? Bobby, let me see those hands. Hold them out. Mercy! Paws, that's what they are—paws! No wonder your nightwork papers are dirty. If I were Miss Holbin I wouldn't touch them."

Under Bobby's tousled thatch above those painfully red eyes, and murky neck was one of the finest brains in the city. His arithmetic problems were right. Keenly analytical, his young mind had ferreted out the different methods of solution. He had no flair for grammar, but diagraming was mechanical. It was as correct as his arithmetic. His untidy papers were a hundred times as significant as Elizabeth's neat ones, but he got not even the faintest word of praise.

It was right to try to teach him neatness, but we so often miss the big thing and nag about little ones where our children are concerned. Someday Bobby will make a name for himself very likely. But if he does it will not be because of any encouragement he got at home.

COOLIDGE'S POSITION.

Although Calvin Coolidge has returned to private life in Northampton, he is discovering that his fellow citizens have not yet lost interest in him. Pictures of him and accounts of his doing are still eagerly sought by the newspapers. His fame is dying very slowly.

A very interesting book could be written about the lives of our ex-presidents. Our scheme of government puts the man who leaves the White House in a peculiar position. Usually he is just at the height of his powers, and often he is likewise at the height of his popularity; yet his course of action when he returns to private life is definitely limited.

He is considered more or less out of the picture politically. It is not held quite ethical for him to plunge actively into business or professional life. About all he can do is write—and muse, perhaps, on the way in which he has helped to shape history.

Through all of this, however, no matter how valiantly he strives to gain obscurity, he is still a public character. People want to know what he is doing, and how and why. Reporters and cameramen cannot leave him alone. His retirement is a public affair.

Thus there must come into the life of such a man a sense of anti-climax. It can hardly be pleasant for a man who still sees many active years stretching ahead of him to feel that he is definitely "on the shelf"—that his active days are over, whether he likes it or not.

It is queer, when you stop to think about it. For, after all, the lot of the ex-president is precisely the lot which most of us, in our ambitious youth, would pick for our own goals. To have a full, busy life, crammed with achievement, fame, honor and power; to reach the highest place that America can give any man, to taste the fruits of success and accomplishment to the full, and then to retire to private life, unburdened by cares, conscious that fame is secure and that one has given one's best—that, surely, sounds like the best a man could wish.

But ex-presidents don't ordinarily seem to feel that way. Wilson did not, and Roosevelt did not, and it is a fair guess that Coolidge, likewise, will find his retirement irksome after a while.

The truth of the matter seems to be that there is a perverse twist in the human heart that makes men forever dissatisfied unless they are constantly being called upon to spend themselves to the very limit. Much as we like leisure, we like ceaseless activity for better. The happiest men, usually, are the busiest.

The more capable a man is, the more this is true of him. So our ex-presidents are not particularly to be envied. After Calvin Coolidge has had a year or so of retirement, it is a safe guess that he will begin to hold that viewpoint.

ONE VIEW OF GANG MURDERS.

A magazine writer recently interviewed a Chicago business man on the general subject of gang murders, which Chicago has made so famous.

The business man didn't think such affairs were very important.

"They're not killing law-abiding citizens," he said. "They're just killing each other. What difference does it make to decent people whether the gangsters kill each other or wait for the police to do it?"

At first glance that sounds like good sense. But on reflection it is easy to see that it makes a good deal of difference. The police have shown a lamentable inability to bring the major gangsters to book. People will not testify against them—because they fear the gangsters' guns.

These gang shootings help the underworld to maintain its power over its victims. Until they're broken up, the underworld will continue to operate unchecked.

Whether you follow the teachings of Newton or Einstein, when the stock market breaks a lot of people come down to earth.

That schoolgirl complexion is all right in its place, but it can cause an awful lot of trouble on father's coat.

A man suing for divorce charges that his wife kissed him only when she wanted money. What an affectionate woman!

Well, now that his years in the Senate are ended, maybe General Dawes can go back to Chicago and find some peace.

A miniature automobile made of diamonds and other jewels in the amount of $150,000 was exhibited at some of the recent automobile shows. Almost good enough for a gangster's funeral.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

While three small Tinies search around to see where Clowly has entered is a long and winding one. Wee lanterns hang upon the wall real tight, of course, so they won't fall. As Clowly looks around he thinks, "This isn't any fun."

"I wish the lads outside were here. Of course there's nothing that I fear, but I am fond of company. I'm lonesome as can be. I'll bet right now they're round about and trying hard to get me out. 'Tis well the cave has lanterns, or I couldn't even see."

Then through the cave he slowly roamed until all parts, it seemed, were combed. He didn't find an exit. Everything was shut up tight. He grew real tired and fell asleep. While he was in his slumber deep he dreamed that very shortly everything would be all right.

So now poor Clowly can be found, far, far beneath the outside ground.

MY THIRTY YEARS AT SEA

By Capt. George Fried

It was love at first sight when Fried met the girl who became his wife—at a dinner aboard the America. They were opposites in type. His courtship, as romantic as his life; the long period of homesickness and lovelessness before marriage; house hunting and furnishing, these were all new adventures to Fried, and he says he proceeded slowly as he did not want to "run into any squalls."

CHAPTER XV
Until I was married I never had the chance to enjoy home life. Every sailor hopes to have a home some day, away from the sea, and fortunate indeed is the sailor who can go to a home of his own if only for the short time in port. Men in the merchant marine are better off in this respect than the men of the navy, who more constantly from port to port.
After 10 or 15 years at sea the desire to roam is on the wane; at least that is how I found it. Why

—but a walk to the heart of Chicago

If you rejoice in sunny windows, sparkling waves, wide-flung horizon, you will take more than ordinary pleasure in this great hotel. If you wish to add to these, convenience to Loop theatres, offices, shops, then you will be pleased indeed. LAKE SHORE DRIVE AND UPPER MICHIGAN AVENUE

The DRAKE HOTEL Chicago

UNDER THE BLACKSTONE MANAGEMENT KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

laughingly told me she was willing to be my New York girl.

It was in May, 1919, when I met Miss Laura Parmenter at a dinner aboard the America. I was navigator with the rank of lieutenant. Miss Parmenter was young, frantically pretty with bluish flashing eyes and a beautiful smile. They say opposites attract. I watched her intently during the dinner and arranged later for a theater party the following night, together with another of the ship's officers and a young lady. She was living in New York with an aunt and uncle, but was a native of Cincinnati. I met her aunt and uncle and lost no time in informing them that Miss Parmenter was the young lady that I wanted for my bride.

A sailor's courtship obviously is not satisfactory. Almost a month elapsed between calls at the home port. In Europe I went shopping for the first time in my life for gifts that would be appropriate for a lady. Presenting them was a new thrill. But it didn't last long. After only two calls at New York the discouraging word was received that the America was to start on a trip lasting six months. It was a sad day when we sailed and many other sad days followed. Fortunately, this was an interesting voyage and tended to relieve lovelessness, a malady that ranks along with homesickness and seasickness. I know of no cure for any of them.

I never knew the world was so large, but finally the America returned to port. We were to be in New York for five days before starting again for the Mediterranean. Those five days passed with magical swiftness, but gave me ample time to present an engagement ring to Miss Parmenter.

Before embarking on the sea of matrimony, however, several years passed in which I had time to save money. This was a new adventure and I did not want to run into any squalls. We decided definitely to embark, however, when I was transferred to the President Roosevelt and was given command of this beautiful new liner. So on March 21, 1922, we were married in Greenwich Conn. That was a Tuesday. Sunday we went house hunting. Monday we decided on an apartment, after discussing the selection an hour or so on a bench in Central Park. We wondered if we were not making too big a job because of what appeared to us to be a very high rent. I knew nothing about rents nor locations. We took a two-room apartment with a kitchenette in West Eighty-fourth Street, New York.

It was a great day for me when we selected our furniture. This was another new adventure. There were so many things I wanted that I was prepared to buy twice as much as was actually necessary. Before I sailed again a Victoria was sent to us as a gift on which I almost wore out one of the records, "Love Nest," before I put to sea again, alone.

I regret that the law of the sea does not permit a member of a ship's complement to have his wife go along, out it is probably best after all because a ship cannot have two captains. So my starboard anchor remains at home. Nevertheless, I do not hesitate to recommend marriage to a seafaring man if he gets the right girl.

Several months afterward I was laid up with an attack of pneumonia and it was then that I appreciated to the fullest extent my wife and my home, for the tender care and comfort I enjoyed. And I want to say that Mrs. Fried is an excellent cook, in fact we moved from the kitchenette apartment to another with a full-sized kitchen so she could enjoy the facilities of a real galley. I have yet to find a steward who can serve me an apple pie that can compare, even favorably, with my wife's baking. Our home, after seven years, is still a love nest. It is about time that I replaced that record, "Love Nest," for it is so scratchy that only Mrs. Fried and I can recognize the tune which we both love.

SOTHERED IN ONIONS

Cleveland—William J. Wolters, manager of a grocery store, didn't appreciate the joke played on him by a robber who took $100 and then smothered the victim in onions. "He made me stretch out on the floor and then piled several sacks of onions on me," Wolters told police. "As if I wasn't ready to cry for the money without the aid of onions."

IT IS a goodly custom, this donning of something new for Easter. There is farsighted wisdom in the selection of shoes. You not only fulfill the conventions but at the same time anticipate a season's necessities. Spring Walk-Overs, in a variety of attractive shapes and patterns, await your attention. There is no "secret of success" in men's Walk-Overs. Men like a shoe that looks well, but above all else they appreciate the joy of going about their affairs in new Walk-Overs that need no breaking-in.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN INTERIOR DEPT. AROUSE COMMENT

Several Officials Relieved of Duties by New Secretary

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Far reaching changes in the policies and operations of the Interior Department are being effected under the Hoover administration with a rapidity which has startled official Washington.

Although Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur has been in charge of the Department only a week, a new major policy, that of the complete conservation of government oil in the ground, has been adopted and a series of changes made in administrative officers with several more to follow in the near future.

Joseph M. Dixon, former Governor of Montana, has succeeded E. C. Finney, as Chief Assistant to the Secretary. Mr. Finney has replaced Ernest O. Patterson as Solicitor, and three bureau chiefs are to be deposed as soon as their successors can be found. They are Charles H. Burke, in charge of Indian affairs; Winfield Scott, Commissioner of Penitents, and William Spry, Commissioner of the General Land Office, who has been in ill health for months.

Result of Study
While the Interior Department has been under general fire in Congress for a number of years, friends of Dr. Wilbur assert that the changes in policies are inaugurating are more the result of his own studies of the whole field of activities of the department than of any assaults that have been made from the outside.

The oil conservation policy, disclosed yesterday by President Hoover in reply to questions of newspaper correspondents, was determined upon at conferences between the President and Dr. Wilbur and seems to have produced conflicting reactions on Capitol Hill.

Senator Walsh of Montana, a Democrat, whose prosecution of the naval oil lease investigations has made an indelible imprint upon congressional history, has questioned the authority of the Chief Executive to refuse to issue permit for further oil prospecting on the public domain when Congress in the general leasing act of April, 1920, said that leases for oil exploitation in that domain may be issued.

Endorsed by Nye.
On the other hand, Senator Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the Public Lands committee, which has conducted the whole series of oil investigations and of which Senator Walsh is a member, has endorsed the President's policy, and so has Senator Borah of Idaho, who also hails from one of the public land states.

Senator Walsh takes the position that the cutting off of further oil development in the public lands states will work to the detriment of those states which are looking for development in which oil lands have passed into private ownership.

"It would seem as though a policy of such consequence ought to be declared by the Congress rather than by the Executive," he says.

The policy of the new administration is to cease issuing permits unless and until Congress shall have enacted a law mandatory upon the Interior Department. It is held that the general leasing act is not a mandatory statute so far as permits are concerned and there can be no leases until the holders of permits have made an actual discovery of oil.

Lenten Thought

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

A great churchman once said that one of the largest churches today is the church outside of the churches. Without discussing why so many people who mean well, and who live well, are not definitely linked with some church, one may recognize that this is true. There is in the world a great deal of unconventional religion and much of it is quite genuine in spirit and in expression.

Some of this unconventional religion is manifested outside of the churches because many men have the same spirit and way of viewing the matter that Lincoln had. Lincoln's famous declaration of his willingness to join a church that would put over its portals the great matter of love to God and to man as the simple test of membership, expressed what is still in the minds of many people.

But churches since Lincoln's day have changed very greatly in this matter of orthodoxy and conformity to elaborate creeds. Most churches today would accept in membership a man of Lincoln's type who frankly stated his difficulty with the creeds, but who equally emphasized his purpose to live according to the law of Christ.

It is unfortunate that all whose lives are constructively Christian in purpose are not definitely associated with the churches, but the fault does not rest entirely with individuals.

The churches will have to lay increasing stress upon the things that Jesus made pre-eminent. Living is chiefly a matter of loving.

LEE CENTER NEWS

Lee Center — Reinhart Schnell Vernon Schnell and Roy Schnell of Bradford township went to Moline Friday and purchased a new monoplane airplane from the Mono Aircraft, Inc., of Moline. The plane is powered with a Vee 5 cylinder, 60 horse power air cooled radial motor of the latest type and is equipped with two magnetos and two spark plugs in each cylinder, three oil pumps giving an oil pressure of 80 pounds, and two separate gasoline lines are designed to give a minimum of trouble. The mono-coupe plane is a braced high wing monoplane. A pilot and one passenger are seated side by side in the cabin and dual controls are provided. The plane has a high speed of 100 miles an hour, cruising speed of 85 and a landing speed of 35. It carries gasoline enough for a 500 mile trip and makes 20 miles per gallon of gas.

The plane is 20 feet, 6 inches in length and has a wing span of 32 feet. The fuselage is built of welded steel tubing with Flightex covering. Wings are made with spruce spars and bass wood ribs covered with Flightex fabric and treated with eight coats of dope.

Reinhart Schnell has been taking instruction at the Eagle Airport Aviation School at Hinckley, Ill., for some time and has passed the examinations as required by the department of commerce at Washington. Mr. Schnell expects to conduct an air taxi service, carry passengers and give instruction to any one wishing to learn the art of flying. Delivery of the new plane will be before April 1. A hangar and flying field have been arranged 4 miles north-east of Lee Center and every one is invited to visit the field and see the first plane owned in Lee county after that time.

The Legion Rifle Club of Lee Center held another shoot at Woodman hall last Thursday evening.

Brasel and Bedient were high men of the evening with a score of 93 points out of a possible 100. Wellman was second with 92, and Lambert with 91 points, was third. Brasel and Bedient chose sides for the evening as follows:

Seeking Recovery of Delaware Co. Stock

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 12.—(AP)—Described as of "great importance to the Illinois business world" a case involving ownership of shares of the Addressograph Company, valued at half a million dollars, was brought to the Supreme Court today.

The case was brought by Joseph Harris against the Chicago Title & Trust Company, acting for the late John B. Russell, for recovery of the shares.

Harris, who won in the Cook County Circuit Court but suffered reversal in the Appellate Court, maintains that the Addressograph Company, although of Delaware, has no property or offices in Delaware and in fact has its principal offices and property in Illinois.

The Appellate Court held that the Circuit Court of Cook County had no jurisdiction because of the foreign character of the corporation. "Is it possible," the brief filed today asks, "that a citizen of Illinois having a just claim to shares of stock in a foreign corporation must be relegated to foreign jurisdiction to establish his claim?"

"Title to property worth millions is held by citizens of this state in Delaware corporations, which have all their property and do all their business in Illinois. Certificates of stock representing these shares are passed from hand to hand every day. This case presents questions of great importance to the Illinois business world."

WOMAN INCOME TAX LAWYER IS HELD FOR FRAUD

And Many Movie Stars Wonder What Will be the Outcome

Los Angeles, Cal., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Anxiety pervaded the starry motion picture firmament in Hollywood today as many film celebrities wondered how much they will owe Uncle Sam after the investigation of their earnings, and whether they will be held responsible for any improper acts attributed by federal income tax officials to J. Marjorie Berger.

Miss Berger, an income tax counselor of Hollywood, was indicted by a federal grand jury here yesterday on 24 counts of alleged criminal aid in preparing fraudulent income tax returns for many prominent film personages. Government officials declared she assisted in defrauding the Treasury out of more than a million dollars in recent years.

That the apprehension of the screen celebrities may not be wholly unfounded was evidenced by the announcement of United States Attorney S. W. McNabb that several idols of the movie fans may be named in conspiracy indictments.

One of the disclosures in the indictment was that the gross 1927 income of Rod LaRogue, as "approved" by Miss Berger, was $121,987. She made deductions totalling $43,870, leaving a net income of $77,216 upon which a tax of $10,648 was paid. The government charged that LaRogue's gross income was $182,779, and that deductions should have totalled only $9,667, leaving a net income of $173,111, upon which a tax of $34,291 should have been paid.

NEW ARSON LAWS
URGED BY STATE
FIRE DIRECTOR

Marshal Says Firebugs
Can Go Scot Free Under Present Law

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 13.—(AP).—Firebugs can go scot free under Illinois statutes, contemptuous of apprehension or punishment, the Judiciary committee of the Illinois House of Representatives was told this afternoon by State Fire Marshal S. L. Legrand.

The real firebug, he explained, is not the "tool" who sets the match to the inflammable material, but the bankrupt merchant who hires the tool to burn his store so that he may collect insurance.

Explaining the Model Arson law, proposed for enactment in Illinois in a bill sponsored by Senator William P. Jewell of Lewistown, Mr. Legrand cited other instances of the laxity of Illinois laws regarding incendiary fires, which he declared have caused losses equal to half of the total fire loss in Illinois in some years. Among these loopholes in the law were:

An accessory one who procures the fire, cannot be punished.

The owner of a building who is about to be dispossessed, may burn the building and be charged only with malicious mischief.

Everything may be arranged for the fire, but until the match is touched the culprit cannot be prosecuted.

"We may show by competent evidence," said Mr. Legrand, "that the origin of the fire was incendiary, that the owner was in financial straits, that he took out additional insurance shortly before the fire, that he removed most of his goods to another location before the burning, that he purchased candles, gasoline, bolts of cheese cloth and other inflammable material and took them to the building before the blaze, and that these materials were used in setting the fire. But the owner can show that he was in some other place at the time of the fire. He could not have actually set the fire himself. Under the present law, the principal is the person who set the fire—the firebug who was hired to do the job. The owner in most cases could be prosecuted only as an accessory before the fact, but with the identity of the principal unknown, there can be no prosecution of the accessory. The proposed law makes it possible to prosecute the one who aids, counsel or procures the burning."

"Often we receive advance information of an intended fire. We may find the materials all in place in a building, ready for the application of the match. We may lay in wait for the culprit and may catch him as he is about to set the blaze. The law does not cover the situation unless the match is touched and there is an actual burning or charring of building or stock. We cannot permit this to happen and the only offense which could be charged would be malicious mischief."

"Another offense which is not covered by the arson law is the spite fire set by the owner of a building of which he is likely to be dispossessed. As he is the legal owner at the time of the fire, he is immune from prosecution for arson, as under the present law arson is the crime of burning the building of another person. The proposed law brings crimes of this sort under the purview of the law."

The proposed law, is sponsored by the Fire Marshals' Association of North America, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Association of Credit Men, fire chiefs and others interested in fire loss reduction. It has been adopted in 18 states and is pending in 18 others.

Flyers' Health Conserved Thru Physical Exams.

By Major Wood S. Woolford, M. C.
Washington, D. C.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

The United States Army requires a thorough physical examination of its air officers semi-annually, and of its officers of all other branches annually.

The purpose of the physical examination for flying is two-fold. First to insure that the individual is physically fit to fly, and secondly, to detect any condition that, if uncorrected, would eventually result in physical disability. Its underlying object, therefore, is the prevention of casualties on account of physical unfitness or inadaptability for flying primarily, and the early recognition and cure of potential disqualifying conditions secondarily. It selects the fit and seeks to reclaim them when they become less so.

The examination for flying consists, essentially, in addition to the accepted methods of making a general physical examination, of tests of the eye muscles, of depth perception, of the ability to judge distance, of exact determination of the hearing apparatus and of the nose and throat. Both static equilibrium and the reactions to the Barany tests are noted. The Schneider index rating is used to determine the efficiency of the circulatory system. A study is made of the neuro-psychic condition in the usual manner plus performance tests, to determine as accurately as possible in the present state of our knowledge, the quickness of the individual's mental perception and the speed and accuracy of his co-ordinated muscular response to visual and auditory stimuli. Also a close study is made of his personality to determine his temperamental fitness for flying.

It is thus evident that the periodic physical examination of flyers presents unusual opportunities for the conservation of health. It has been shown that there is a direct relationship between physical fitness and flying. This opportunity of conservation exists in commercial aviation as well as in the military services. The results must of necessity depend upon close co-operation between the medical adviser and the flyer. These have been very gratifying in the military services, as the flyers understand that the primary object of the flight surgeon's efforts is to safeguard their interests and that continued flying depends upon the continuation of physical fitness. A careful record is kept of all data bearing on the aviator's health and physical condition and corrective measures promptly instituted when the occasion demands. With the establishment of the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce, a central agency was created, the Office of Medical Director, having the function of supervising the physical condition of civilian flyers. The Air Commerce Regulations demand periodic examinations and a high degree of physical fitness.

It is only in comparatively recent years that preventive medicine has concerned itself with the individual. Formerly the province of this branch of medicine was generally considered to be principally in the protection of groups or masses of people from infectious diseases. The advances that have taken place in preventive medicine have made possible the protection of the individual from many organic and degenerative diseases.

OBITUARY

HERMAN MISSMAN

The Clear Lake, Ia., paper of Wednesday, Mar. 6, had the following concerning the death of Herman Missman, a former resident of Dixon, and an uncle of Herman and Milton Missman of this city.

Herman Missman died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Cary Kerr, at Clear Lake, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, March 1st, 1929. He was 92 years of age January 4. Taken to his bed only the past three weeks death was due to old age, natural complications arising.

Herman Missman was born in Oldenburg, Germany, January 4th, 1837. With his widowed mother and brothers he came to Somerset county, Pennsylvania, a child of 8 years, and while still a young man the family journeyed to Dixon, Illinois, where he grew to manhood and on September 6, 1860 was married to Minnie Specht, the families having been neighbors in Pennsylvania.

In 1864 he came to Iowa, living in the vicinity of Ackley and Hampton until 1893 when the family settled on the then unimproved section farm near Woden. Retiring in 1907 to Garner and in 1922 to Clear Lake, where on Feb. 16, 1927 the wife and mother passed on, thus ending, on earth, more than 66 years of wedded life.

In his active life he did much to the interest of local school and township affairs, holding office almost continuously therein. In national politics, a Republican, he cast his first vote for Lincoln and his last vote for Hoover.

Confirmed a Lutheran, he afterwards joined the German Evangelical church and later with his family affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church, and was a member of that church at Clear Lake at the time of his death.

Not ostentatious in his religious life, he quietly served God and mankind; he often sacrificed financial gain for the sake of peace with his neighbor, always with honesty and integrity, but he did leave to his sons and daughters the priceless heritage of this upright character and the eternal memory of a Christian partnership.

Mr. and Mrs. Missman passed the 6th anniversary of their wedding on Sept. 6, 1926, and to them were born twelve children as follows: Elvira, wife of E. D. Haacker, who died in July, 1915; Charles A. Missman, a farmer in Woden, Iowa; Anna C.

who died in infancy; Nellie G., who died in early childhood; Mrs. William Raw of Britt, Clarence H., who died in March, 1897; O. F. Missman, attorney at Albert Lea, Minn.; Mrs. Cary Kerr, Clear Lake; Doctor W. F. Missman, Klemme; Norman Missman, farmer of Britt; Mrs. C. M. Foley, of Obsidian, Idaho; Irving Missman, Cedar Falls. Thus eight children survive besides twenty-two grand-children, three great grand children.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist Episcopal church, at Clear Lake, March 4th, conducted by the Rev. J. R. Tumbleton, pastor of that church. Interment was made in Woden Cemetery on the ridge south of that village, and which commands a view of the old Missman homestead.

SCHOLES WRITES BILL

Springfield, Ill., March 12—(AP)—His serious illness does not prevent Robert Scholes of Peoria, last year's Speaker of the House of Representatives, from taking an interest in the state's law making. Representative Scholes offered a bill in the House today, through the service of his colleague, David McCluggage of Peoria, who carried the proposal to Springfield. The measure seeks a connecting hard road between state routes 23 and 88.

Five Injured When Train Left Track

Rockford, Ill., Mar. 12—(AP)—Illinois Central Railroad officials are investigating the cause of a wreck of an east bound freight train near Seward last night in which five men were injured, two of them seriously, when the locomotive went into a ditch and several cars left the rails, some of the latter carrying prize cattle. Three of the injured were released from a Freeport hospital today. Frank Secker, engineer, and Lee M. Jones, fireman of the freight, are reported to be recovering.

Lawyer Coolidge Returns to Work

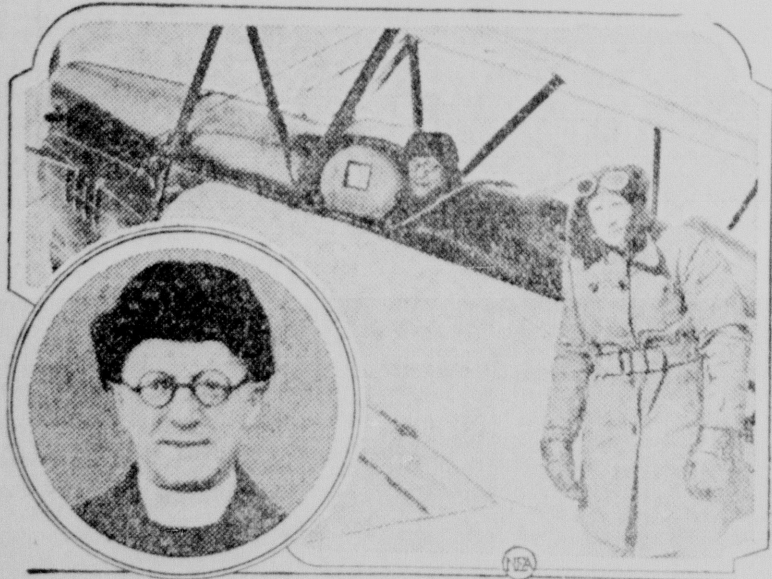

Attorney Calvin Coolidge, of Northampton, Mass., returned to the plain square room with a few prints on the wall and a pine desk in the corner that is his law office. He is shown, upper left, as he went to work in a taxicab like any other citizen. Below you see him being greeted by his law partner, Ralph Hemmway, at the entrance of their office. Then the ex-president went inside, took off his hat and overcoat and is pictured, upper right, as he sat down to dictate a few letters in surroundings which contrast strikingly with those of the White House.

Ah! The New Mode

Covers Parish by Air

The island parishes of Lake Erie, comprising Catholic congregations at Put-in-Bay and on the North and Middle Bass Islands and Kelly's Island, have a flying priest—Father Joseph K. Maerder. Father Maerder, who lives in Put-in-Bay, has to make many trips to the other islands to conduct services and visit the sick, and found the ordinary methods of travel—by boat in the summer and by ice in the winter—too slow. So now he goes about by airplane, piloted by Pilot Milton Hershberger. The picture shows Father Maerder in the plane, with Hershberger standing beside it; inset is a close-up of the priest.

Hooks and Slides

HUGGINS, THE THEORIST

Found in a rather elegant mood, after our first talk to him at St. Petersburg, Fla., about his Yankee ball club, Miller Huggins expressed some interesting theories about baseball that might explain his extraordinary success with the New York club.

"There is such a thing as a law of averages in every business, in every profession and in every game," he said. "You will stay good for a certain period of time and then you will turn bad unless, during the period of your prosperity, you have made provisions for the future, changes in your organization purposed to have young men in their prime associated with men past the peak of their perfection and, at the same time, to have real young fellows working up to take the places of the others."

"That's what we have been trying to do with our New York ball club. That's the reason we have released some veteran players who have gone out and given good service to other clubs."

THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEM

"Considering beyond the immediate future, the law of averages is the problem of our club."

"We are bound to serve that law, but I do not think it is immediately upon us, but some day it is going to arrive and when that time comes the Yankees will have to wait for the law to turn. This sounds like pessimism and everyone says I'm a pessimist, but I could give you proof of my point if I had a couple of hours to spare."

"The immediate problem of the Yankees as it confronts me this year, is one of disposition on the part of the players. I don't mean heart and I don't mean bad acting. I haven't any bad actors on my ball club and I wouldn't discuss the question of heart."

"There are some players on other

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ball clubs in our league who are said to lack courage. I have heard my players talk about it, but I never have seen any display of cowardice in those players.

"There have been ball players on my club who were called gutless by other players, but I wouldn't say it. Before the Yankees got going, we were called yellow, but it has been my experience that courage alone will not win a championship. You have to have the ability first and above all before you can beat road teams."

YOUNG FELLOWS HUSTLE

"I am not worried about the Babe," Huggins went on. "I am not worried about any of my ball players. I think the Babe ought to be good for four or five years more. He won't be as fast a man, of course. Nobody can beat the effects of age on legs. But the Babe will be a very good ball player on any club as long as he can walk. Any player who can hit at least 25 home runs a season is a very good player for any ball club."

"The point I was trying to make about the disposition of my players is this: You can't eat pie all your life without getting tired of it. If you worked for 10 years and made a pile of money, you would quit scribbling with the pencil, wouldn't you?"

"Well, success and too much assurance may injure my ball club. After they have been winning so much they may get the idea that no one can beat them and that's where the young hustlers come in. As long as you can have a couple of young hustlers who are looking to a future on my club the problem will be reduced."

"I think it is going to be a tough pennant race. The team that wins the pennant may win less than 100 games. The Athletics are strong and the Tigers have to be considered. Detroit has a very good ball club."

McCarthy's Regulars Had Off Day Tuesday

Avalon, Cal., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy's Cubs have their downs as well as their ups.

Yesterday his "murderers row" failed to function and his pitching aces, announced as ready for the season's opener, were as wild as a March wind. The Catalinas defeated the Avalons 14 to 3 in an inter-club game.

Pat Malone and Gy Bush were unable to locate the plate while Cuyler and Wilson failed to connect with a hit. Hornsby cracked out only a single as did Stephenson, but each scored two runs after taking advantage of Malone's and Horne's wildness.

Schwartz is Winner Over Canadian Champ

Toronto, Ont., Mar. 13.—(AP)—For the second time in two months, Izzy Schwartz, recognized in New York state as flyweight champion of the world, has turned back the assault of Albert (Frenchy) Belanger of Toronto, Canadian 112-pound titleholder.

Schwartz won the decision over Belanger in a fast and hard-fought 12-round bout at the Coliseum here last night.

CUBS INSPIRED WITH SPIRIT TO CAPTURE HONORS

Hornsby Expected to Provide Punch Needed to Go Over

BY VICTOR G. SIDLER

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Mar. 13.—(AP)—The clashing of cymbals and brass attend the preparations of the Chicago Cubs for the National League pennant race—they have been widely proclaimed as favorites to carry off the bunting.

Pre-season clamor already has vested the Chicagoans in the garb of the champions, and now all that Manager Joe McCarthy has to do is win the flag. If the prognostications of the various and sundry critics prove to be right, the Cubs will annex their first pennant since 1918.

One of the most colorful aggregations in the club's history—and one of the snappiest outfits seen in many seasons—has been in spring training on this pleasure isle. The inclusion in the lineup of Rogers Hornsby and his mighty bludgeon appears to have much to do with the Cubs' envied position as favorites, and the spirit and pep with which they have gone through their conditioning toil indicates they are imbued with the pennant spirit.

Hope for Needed Punch

The punch that was lacking in the final days of last year's hectic campaign, resulting in the loss of the gonfalon by a four game margin, the Cubs hope, will be contributed by Hornsby, seven times leader of the National League in hitting. Then, such swashbucklers as Haven "Kiki" Cuyler, "Hack" Wilson, and Jackson Stephenson will be there to aid in boosting the Cubs over the top with their long range shelling.

While McCarthy is depending considerably upon Hornsby, he also lays great stress on his reserve material which he describes in enthusiastic terms. Clarence Blair, a youngster from Little Rock, Ark., is a third base sub with fairly hefty wallop and good fielding ability. He should prove valuable as relief man for Clyde Beck at the "hot corner."

Elwood English, 21, possessor of two seasons' experience with the club, will hold down shortstop. Charley Grimm will be at first, Hornsby at second, Beck at third and Norman McMillan again filling the general infield utility role.

Great Outfield

Cuyler, Wilson and Stephenson to all appearances will occupy the outfield berths, with Clifton Heathcote and John Moore, other veteran fly chasers, carried. Dan Taylor, from Memphis with a batting average of .374, will prove an able reserve in the garden.

It is in the catching department that the hottest battle is raging but it looks as if the Cubs will retain the two veterans of last year, Miguel Gonzales and Charley "Gabby" Hartnett, and one of two young backstops. Tom Angley, 185 pound re-ciever from Atlanta, Ga., hit .323 last season, while Robert Grace,

Browns Manager's Figures on Make

West Palm Beach, Fla., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Already the rookies know how many places are open for them on Manager Dan Howley's St. Louis Browns. Howley set a numerical classification yesterday of ten pitchers, seven infielders and three catchers for his June 1931, limit of 25. The roster shows three pitchers, two catchers, two infielders and one outfielder are due to get the hooks.

No Post-Season Play in "Little Nineteen"

Galesburg, Ill., Mar. 13.—(AP)—There will be no post season game between Lombard and Illinois Wesleyan to determine the Little Nineteen Conference basketball championship. Athletic Director Harry Bell of Lombard has announced. "We have played all the conference games we could get," said Bell. "The season is over and the team has been disbanded."

Lombard won six games which it scheduled within the Little Nineteen loop, while Wesleyan won 10 of its 13 conference games. No official title is recognized by the Conference officials.

White Sox and Dallas to Resume Their Work

Dallas, Tex., Mar. 13.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox and Dallas Steers resumed their baseball argument today—providing the weather permits. The Sox were rained out of a practice session for the second consecutive day yesterday and Manager Lena Blackburne is anxious to get his hopefuls back on the job. Dan Dugan, Ed Walsh, Jr., and Fred Dundon are the pitching nominations for today's game—the fourth with the Dallas outfit.

Don't Take a Chance

Don't let your customers have their axles heated to straighten them, talk them out of it for SAFETY'S SAKE, a heated axle will bend again after heating from just ordinary use, it may do more than bend because axles of today are made from far different kinds of steels than a few years back, don't take any chances. Every car manufacturer today strongly advises NOT TO HEAT AXLES in straightening, four wheel brakes make a lot of difference on front axles, front brakes put a strain on the axle, axles are stronger now than before but they will bend in a wreck or collision.

This NEW HYDRAULIC STRAIGHTENING PRESS will straighten axles cold as manufacturers say to straighten them. It will also take care of steel disc wheels, put them in perfect line as when new. We believe that we are the only ones in this locality doing this kind of work and want to call attention to this to all garages in and around DIXON, we will give you quick service, bring in the next axle or steel disc wheel that needs straightening, we will show you a REAL JOB.

VONPORAT SHOWS CLASS IN DEFEAT OF THOS. HEENEY

New Zealander Badly
Beaten in Chicago
Ring Last Eve

Chicago, March 13.—(AP)—Otto von Porat's galloping gloves pounded a requiem to Tom Heene's heavy-weight title aspirations last night and sent the New Zealand hard rock to the hospital for repairs.

Eighteen stitches were required to close the inch-deep slash in Heene's lip which von Porat's right hand opened in the final round. The wound sent blood cascading down over Heene's body, and the New Zealander, realizing how desperate his plight must have appeared, told referee Ed Purdy not to stop the fight, that he wall all right.

After the cut was closed, Heene left the hospital.

Heene, upon whose body Gene Tunney wrote his farewell to pugilism last year, was a badly whipped man when the Norwegian puncher got through his ten rounds of work. Von Porat took seven rounds, lost two and held Heene even in the other. To the surprise of most of the 9,000 spectators he not only out-slugged the New Zealander but out-boxed him most of the time.

The referee, and two judges returned an unanimous verdict in favor of Von Porat. Heene looked the best in the opening two rounds, but from that point on the Norwegian laid the hurting. He used his left as a guarding rapier and shot right upper cuts to vane the monitory.

Von Porat finished virtually unmarked. It was his most satisfying showing since he began in a small way to become covetous of the world's heavyweight crown.

The fight was worth $17,500 to Heene and approximately $12,000 to Von Porat, the former Olympic games champion.

Echoes of Massacre in Illinois Senate

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 12.—(AP)—Echoes of the St. Valentine's Day gang massacre in Chicago rang through the state Senate chamber today as debate raged over the adoption of a resolution introduced by Senator Roy C. Woods of Chicago, asking revision of practice and procedure in criminal cases.

Senator James J. Barbour opposed the resolution, which would have a committee of six, three Senators and three Representatives, investigate the present criminal laws and report back to the General Assembly. Debate became personal as Barbour aired personal animosity for Senator Woods. Barbour said the only in-it he ever submitted to in ten years of court practice came from Woods when the latter was Assistant State Attorney of Cook County.
